

Fayette County Redevelopment Authority awards water line contract

Herald Standard Staff | Posted: Tuesday, August 3, 2010 4:00 am

The Fayette County Redevelopment Authority awarded a contract today to a local excavating company to move forward with a water line replacement project in Redstone Township. Seiler Excavating submitted the low bid of $81,615 for the project that will be focused in the Chestnut Ridge area of Redstone Township.

Authority Executive Director Andrew French said that the authority received a total of six bids for the project and Widmer Engineering reviewed all bids and recommended awarding the contract to Seiler.

Read Josh Krysak's story in Wednesday's Herald-Standard for full details.